

Introducing the first home comfort system that can actually call in sick.

The AccuLink™ Home Communicating System from American Standard is a hard worker. From the moment it's set up, it constantly monitors itself and fine tunes its own settings for efficiency and comfort. But even the most dedicated employee can get sick. So if it ever experiences a fault, it will call for help and guide you right to the problem. To learn more about the easy installation and optimum efficiency of the AccuLink™ Home Communicating System, contact your independent American Standard distributor today.

American Standard
HEATING & AIR CONDITIONING

americanstandardair.com

© 2008 American Standard Heating & Air Conditioning All rights reserved